High Performance Designation from HUD

The Tuscaloosa Housing Authority is happy to announce that it has received a High Performer designation by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

This is the highest honor that a public housing agency can receive. THA earned a score of 93 out of 100 on the Public Housing Assessment System (PHAS).

PHAS is the annual performance assessment for public housing programs throughout the United States.

The PHAS is divided into four key areas: the Real Estate Assessment Center (REAC) that evaluates the physical conditions of public housing communities; the Financial Assessment Subsystem (FASS), the Management Assessment Subsystem (MASS), and the obligation and expenditures of Capital Funds.

HUD annually assigns each public housing agency a rating on each of the four key areas and an overall performance rating of high (90 percent or above), standard (60-89 percent), or troubled (59 percent or below).

Back to Basics: Simple Ways to Save Money

A new school year is here which means that the holiday season is right around the corner. Now is the time to make a plan for saving and spending so that you won't get into debt while spreading holiday cheer. Here are a few tips to help you stay within budget.

Establish a Special Savings Account and Pay Yourself First. The best way to pay yourself first is through direct deposit. Allowing your bank or credit union to automatically put money into a special savings account at every payday is a sure way to save money for the holidays. You will appreciate the nest egg you've saved once the holiday shopping season begins.

Set a Spending Limit. What is your budget? Setting a limit is very important so that you won't overspend. If you happen to underspend, put the leftovers back into your savings account and count this as a win!

Make a Shopping List and STICK TO IT. Too many times people go into stores and buy unnecessary items. This is a huge mistake because you may overspend. It is extremely important to take your list shopping with you and mark items off the list as you get them.

Shop Around. There is always a retailer who can offer the same product at a cheaper price. Some retailers will allow you to use coupons to help you save more money. If you do not have a coupon, remember to ask the cashier if they have coupons before you make your purchase.

Check Your Budget Continuously. It's important to make sure that you have not overspent and to make sure that you didn't buy anything that wasn't on the list. Continue to check other competitors and feel free to return items if you find them at a lower price.

Feel free to use these tips for everyday shopping needs. It is always a good time to Save Money!

THA Summer Interns

The Tuscaloosa Housing Authority bid farewell to a group of very bright and talented summer youth interns in August.

High school students Douglas Belcher, Trayvon Melton, Jarmarlia Cooper, Truan Towers, and Joshua Booth (L to R) were placed with THA through the Westside Community Action Council, Inc. This program is made possible by the City of Tuscaloosa HOPE Initiative.

Students worked in various capacities at the Authority, exercising professionalism and workplace etiquette. The summer interns were instrumental in helping the Resident Services, Section 8, Public Housing, and Finance Department. This program introduced students to customer service within a business office setting. The Tuscaloosa Housing Authority appreciated the opportunity to mentor these youth.

Prior to the end of their internship, THA challenged each intern to pick a topic of choice and prepare a 10-minute presentation and present it to a mixed audience of supervisors, managers, and directors. Each intern was graded on topic choice, presentation structure, and presentation delivery. Each intern did exceptional but the overall winner of the challenge was Miss Jamarlia Cooper.; she received a monetary prize.

The Tuscaloosa Housing Authority applauded a successful summer of work and learning with an employee sponsored lunch where students received a token of appreciation for their service.
